Raja4Divers – The Official Opening

20 February 2012 the official opening was held at Pulau Pef. Around 150 guests were expected to come and join the ceremonial act. Preparations in the background, like the invitations and planning the ceremony, took place for some time before the opening. But a couple of days prior to the big event, it really got busy on the island to get everything ready in time. Cooking, making decorations, rehearsing for the dancing and building shelters had to be done. And in the end of course dressing up for the guests.

On the 20th February the first guest who came, was the landowner Adam. Little by little all the other guests from the surrounding villages, arrived on Pulau Pef. Coffee, soft drinks and sweets were served.

Prior to the arrival of the regency leader of Raja Ampat, a delegation had to check the place and the ceremony order. When this was completed, the time was ready for the arrival of the guest of honour.

After he and his entourage were welcomed and served with some snacks, Yanniek opened the ceremony. The priest gave his blessings to the island before the speeches where held and then the big moment came.

Raja4Divers on Pulau Pef was officially opened by the regency leader of Raja Ampat. The following tour through the resort given by Maya impressed the guests very much.

Well nourished the photo shooting took place, the gifts were presented and then it was already time to say goodbye.

In the end we all were tired but happy, though we think the opening was a big success!

A full day dive trip to Fam islands
At least once a week there is a day trip to some dive sites further away. Besides diving there is also time to explore the beauty of Raja Ampat above water. And of course you don't have to starve. The kitchen is always providing delicious food and snacks.
Some impressions from a day trip to the Fam islands.
