

Hello,

Looking to the future with confidence

We are happy that our paradise is as gorgeous as ever and that we are still able to take care of it. Nature has used the forced break to recover, and life above and below the water is brimming with energy!

Giving up is not an option for us because, considering the circumstances, we are all still doing fine.

All that's missing now are our guests!

However, we remain confident that you will be able to visit us again in the coming year and look forward to welcoming you at our jetty soon.

«Raja4Rice» - what a success!

Our project «Raja4Rice» helps support our staff and their families with rice and urgently needed food during these challenging times.

Thank you so much for your generous support and encouraging emails and messages!

You are incredible and have played a vital part in ensuring that we have not only survived since the end of March, but that we can continue to look to the future with hope and confidence.

Are you still looking for a Christmas present?

Christmas is also celebrated in Raja Ampat, as most Papuans are Christians. This includes a festive Christmas dinner in the village together with all the villagers. In the past, we used to go from village to village with a boat load full of food and presents. Unfortunately, this year, we are not able to continue this tradition from our own funds.

This is why people here are all the more happy about the support from «Raja4Rice». Many thanks to those who would still like to make a contribution.

Ibu Maya talks about herself and the creation of the resort in the magazine «Indonesia Expat».

The Jakarta-based magazine «Indonesia Expat» is aimed at foreigners living and working in Indonesia. In its December issue, the magazine, which is published in both printed and digital form, interviewed Maya Hadorn for the «Meet the Expats» section.

The result is an interesting and personal portrait of the founder and CEO of Raja4Divers. We hope you enjoy reading it. You might even learn things you didn't know yet.

Maya Hadorn Believes Everything's Possible Underwater

Covered with lush virgin tropical jungle, surrounded by countless small islets and the world's richest reefs. A Swiss-born Maya Hadorn welcomes travelers to explore Pulau Pef of Raja Ampat with its spectacular resort, white sandy beaches, hidden...
